Architect Spent $6,000 in About a Year to Learn Who Put Detectives on His Track, and the Purpose of the Relentless Espionage.

The following astouding story told from the diary of P. L. Bergoff, a detective and bodyguard employed by Stanford White, is a revelation of the conditions that preceded the tragedy on the Madison Square Roof Garden last Monday night when Harry K. Thaw shot and killed the architect.

It shows that White undoubtedly feared for his life; that he took minute precautions to guard against a surprise and that equally ingenious plans were made to keep track of every movement of the luckless man-about-town.

Mr. Bergoff has been subpoenaed to appear before the July which has not been told, and I am going to tell it. The big architect was square with me and I am not afraid to speak out the truth, although his attorneys and others have been strangely silent.

Between Feb. 14, 1905, and June 25, 1906, Mr. White paid me over $6,000, which sum was disbursed during that period in the protection of his person and the shadowing of a band of private detectives hired by Harry K.

Weather, Too, Has Something to Do With Salem's Light Attendance.

ROCKINGHAM PARK RACE TRACK, June 30.—The weather was cold and showery to-day with an easterly wind driving across the course. The track was a sea of mud. On account of the weather and the stoppage of betting yesterday, the attendance was extremely light. There was very little public betting on account of the absence of outside books, but some wagers were laid in private. During the third and fourth races some layers began taking credit bets orally. They were warned by the man-agement. County Attorney Batchelder walked back and forth eyeing the men Bresnahan was favored with a base on balls as a starter. Marshall bumped a bounder to Linderman who made an attempt to catch Bresnahan at second. The ball bounded out of Bridewell's hands, however, and both runners were safe. In making a sudden stop at second Bresnahan severely wrenched his leg and k was several minutes before to was able to resume play McGam sacrificed and advanced both runners. Mertes hit a grounder to Strobel and Bresnahan was called out in the collision at the plate. Brown was also injured and the game was again delayed until he could patch up his knee. Dahlen fouled out to Brown. NO RUNS.

Oran a Big Surprise

The Great Trial resulted in a big surprise. Miller got Oran home in the stretch was not helieved to have a chance. Ballot went to the front at the start, but was soon outrum by Water Pearl, who showed the way to the stretch followed by Ballot, Oran and Aletine. In the run through the stretch water Pearl stopped to a walk and Oran taking the lead won cleverly by two and a half lengths from Water Pearl, who heat Ballot a length and a half for the place.

Fourth Innies.

Bates filed to Marshall. Howard stung a hot drive to Dahlen which stuck. Dolan negotiated a base on balls. Brown promptly stung a single into centre, sending Dolan to tidrd. On a beautiful double steal Dolan secred while Brown went to second. Strovel thereupon drove a single to centre and Brown scorest. Linderman struck out.
